DAGFINN KLAVENESS

Perfect fit, good lasts, high-quality – These were the principles of founder Dagfinn Klaveness when he started to produce shoes in 1957.

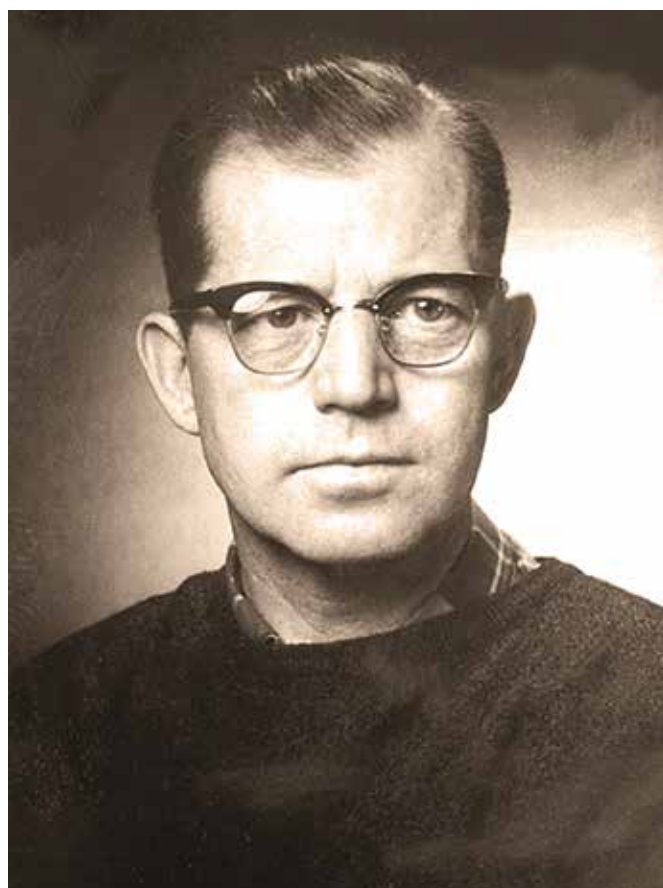

By this time Norwegian shoe factories were losing the competition to low-cost countries. Across the country, businesses were closing down.

The local press noticed the enterprise in Sandefjord, under the headline "Yet there are optimists". The newspaper marvelled of the man who would not give up. Today we know how the story went.

Klaveness has businesses in several countries and sells more shoes than ever. We believe it is due to holding on to the original entrepreneurial idea: To make shoes that your feet would choose – top quality footwear, with perfect fit and good spacious lasts.

Klaveness has been producing footwear for over 60 years. We are a Norwegian company firmly rooted in Scandinavia with assortments of comfort shoes, folklore shoes, and Nordic-inspired slippers, as well as a wide range of medical footwear. Our strength is that we control the entire manufacturing process from start to finished product in our production facilities in Portugal.

We are committed to developing our products and secure high quality continually. We always want to offer our users up-to-date footwear with optimal comfort and a unique, good fit!

RUDI

With a classic last design, Rudi has an elegant toebox and is spacious for replacement insoles. Its tight grip in the ankle and instep secures the fit to produce footwear that has volume for the ball and toes and to accommodate more normal-sized ankle. Heel height and toe spring are moderate.

LISA

Lisa is an important last of Klaveness collection and is ideally suited for wider shoes. Lisa has an especially good fit, with a toe box that delivers plenty of toe space and a roomier forepart. The heel is also anatomic-shaped, which gives a good heel grip without feeling too tight. This last has a 15mm heel height.

FRIDA

The Frida last has been part of our collection for the longest. It is significantly different than, for example, Lisa last in the toe box area. Frida has a more oval toe shape, which gives a different expression than Lisa that is our most anatomic developed last.

SLIPPERS

Klaveness slippers have been a part of Klaveness history for over a decade, and we have provided our customers with over 100,000 pairs. We strive to ensure that the natural materials we use, such as sheep wool and fur, are of high quality. Our slippers have woollen felt footbeds, and their unique structure makes them very sturdy and durable.
